Weekend Out

Are you single and loving it? If so - read no further! But are you single and thinking that you are definitely over it? Then keep reading! So what is the obstacle to finding that elusive soul mate? Are they actually out there? Is it possible that with a few insights, keys and strategies, life can radically change? David Riddell, renowned counsellor, author and speaker will explore the many and varied reasons holding people in singleness & give hope that the future need not be more of the same.

This weekend has been designed for you - it will be a time of fun, insight, coffee, meals out and entertainment. The cringe factor is ruled out in favour of a safe learning environment, relaxation and a chance to meet other interesting people who have the same goals, values, aspirations (and eligibility) as you!
